Subject: Microsoft AntiTrust Settlement

Microsoft has offered to provide significant donations of products to schools as part of a settlement.

I don't like that offer since Microsoft is essentially just building future business by "educating" users in their product. MacIntosh receives a good portion of business for the school market and will likely be harmed in that type of settlement. If MacIntosh isn't around, then MS has the whole market.

I ask for a tough settlement that addresses the predator practices that Microsoft has engaged to dominate the market.
